European Proceedings of Social and Behavioural Sciences (EpSBS) is an open access, peer-reviewed and refereed series. The main objective of the EpSBS is to promote interdisciplinary studies in social and behavioural sciences by providing a platform for international scholars to disseminate their work.

Topics include but are not limited to anthropology, archaeology, psychology, sociology, philosophy, interdisciplinary humanities, economics, political science and additional entries in related fields, including education, legal studies, environmental studies and media studies. The series also welcomes works highlighting the connection between human activities and social interactions.

The EpSBS publishes theoretical, experimental or application-based works with the objective of contributing to a greater understanding and development of social and behavioural sciences. EpSBS publishes either monographs for example, master thesis/doctoral dissertations or edited volumes based on the outcomes of conferences.

Once published, all proceedings are submitted for evaluation and possible coverage in Web of Science Core Collection™ Conference Proceedings Citation Index - Social Sciences & Humanities (CPCI-SSH).

Preface

This volume contains selected, peer-reviewed papers from the International Scientific Forum entitled “National Interest, National Identity and National Security” which was held in the Linguistics University of Nizhny Novgorod, Russia on March 10-12, 2020.

The objective of this forum was to establish a deep and comprehensive scientific understanding of the concepts of national interest, national identity and national security, which are interpreted ambiguously in different scientific schools and research communities.

This forum is important as it acted as a platform for an interdisciplinary discussion bringing together intellectuals in the field of social and humanitarian knowledge, who are able to comprehend the most acute contradictions of current social dynamics.

This forum brought together educators and researchers from Russia, the EAEU countries and Western Europe comprising specialists in the field of museum studies and environmental protection, public figures and representatives of public authorities.

The methodological basis of the forum was a transstructural approach, which most accurately reflects the connotational heterogeneity of the modern world.

More than 260 abstracts were submitted for the consideration of the committee. As far as no specific submission management system was applied, handling the correspondence was a great challenge for the committee. However, 217 submissions were accepted and forwarded to the single-blind review which further narrowed down the number of accepted papers to 153. More than 120 reports were delivered in the course of the event. The 10 minute time-limit for each presentation was applied. The conference’s international flavour was provided by participants who came from Russia, Vietnam, Belarus, Armenia, Kazakhstan and Moldova.

The Forum comprised Plenary sessions where speakers spoke on Ethnic self-awareness and cultural identity in multicultural spaces and Religious and philosophical aspects in the dynamics of national consciousness and social relations. The Workshops dealt with National interests in the practice of media communications and public relation; Public organizations, volunteer movements and youth in the context of national interests; and Linguocultural identity and linguistic worldview. The thematic sections covered presentations on Ethnic self-awareness and cultural identity in multicultural spaces; Religious aspects in national consciousness and social relations; Economic and information aspects of public security; Linguacultural identity and linguistic worldview; National interests in the practice of media communications and public relations; Reflection of national interests in law and legislation; and Public organizations and volunteer movements in the context of national interests. A total of 15 Outstanding paper awards were presented to 15 speakers.

The review process was initiated with the plagiarism check using the web service Antiplagiat.ru. The papers were then reviewed using the single-blind peer review process. A total of 260 submissions were received and of these 217 submissions were accepted and submitted for peer review. 153 manuscripts were accepted after the peer review process. The acceptance rate was 60%. Each paper was reviewed an average of two times and 14 reviewers were involved in the review process. The majority of the reviewers were the committee members and in several cases, the reviewers suggested by the authors were asked to contribute their expertise. The reviewers had to answer the following questions to ensure that the papers were a good fit to the forum’s scope: 1. Does the contribution fit the scope? 2. Does the contribution feature original research? 3. Are the results and conclusions adequate? 4. Is the methodological basis of the research relevant? 5. Does the presentation style meet academic standards?

We would like to express our gratitude and appreciation to all participants and contributors for all their outstanding scientific input and for the fruitful discussions and interaction. We also want to honor all the reviewers for their time and effort in making the publication of this volume a reality. Special thanks goes to the editors, chairs and their assistants for their dedication in handling the correspondence, coordinating the peer-review process, proof-reading and copy-editing the papers. A final thanks goes to all who contributed to making this forum a success.
